INTRODUCTION

The many people who keep saying that they ...." hate school " more often than not, like school. This is because new friends are made through school, and everyone wants friends. These people soon realize how lucky they really are to be able to go to school.

In this yearbook, we of the committee, of "Yearbook: Class of '67" hope that we have given a picture of what school life is like.

DEDICATION

We dedicate this year book to Louis Pole, who died suddenly from an attack of asthma.

Dear Student Friends,

May each be a great success in High School, so all may be proud of you. Never give up the principles you have learned in your religion classes; for with them you will succeed here and here after.

God bless you all.
Devotedly,
Monseigneur Scarff

Words of wisdom from the 2nd Wise Man .....Fr. Martin E. Fields

Congraduations to the class of 1967 at St. Joseph's historic school. If you are to finish college, just think, you are half-way there. To understand this, compare yourself to the first grader, now double that. Keep in contact with us at St. Joseph's. Drop by the CYO frequently.

Graduation is a happy time for all. Yet each graduate must not forget the responsibilities that have become his. Now is the time for facing the teenage world and meeting challenges with Christian maturity. Your years at St. Joseph's have helped to form you in Christ, now you must help transform the world, your world, into Christ's kingdom. May you always live in God's love.

Father Simms.

Dear Graduates,

The members of the faculty wish to congradulate you on your completion of the eight grade at Saint Joseph's School. It is our hope that you will take with you the energy, the desire and determination necessary to do those things which will make you a better student and a better child of God in your future education.
